Kimberly Dimmett joins EWP as Executive Director

EWP welcomes our new Executive Director, Kimberly Dimmett, MA. She holds a Bachelor of Arts from the University of Arizona in Political Science and a Master in Administration from Northern Arizona University.

Kim is an avid community volunteer, which was the conduit to her role as both the Director of Development and Capital Campaign Manager for the Resource and Crisis Center of Galveston County (RCCGC), in Texas. While with RCCGC, she was responsible for the organization's annual budget of nearly $2,000,000 and, in time, a $5.6 million capital campaign effort that resulted in the development of a campus devoted to survivors of domestic violence and sexual assault.

Over the span of five years at the RCCGC, Kim worked to meet client needs and their attainment of economic self-sufficiency. Kim brings that strength of vision to Muskegon and EWP. "My goal is to create an environment that not only meets the immediate needs of those in crisis, but to also provide the resources to move forward, heal, and build a thriving life of self-sufficiency that is free from violence." She adds, "I'm gratified to have a Board of Directors of Every Woman's Place that is engaged and vision-driven as a partner in this endeavor. Together, with EWP's professional and passionate staff, we will be here for survivors in our community."

When asked about her decision to join EWP, Kim says, "I'm impressed with the scope of services that EWP offers, and ready to begin partnering with this community to continue to lead Muskegon in responding to the traumas of domestic violence, sexual assault, or human trafficking"

Kim is relocating from Texas to Michigan, but the weather of the Midwest isn't a complete shock to her system, having grown up in Wisconsin. Her three dogs, two cats, a parrot and new husband will be joining Kim soon.
